

The screenshot shows the 'AutoCAD' subscription page. At the top, it says '22 seats . Maintenance Subscription (Expires)'. There are buttons for 'Browser download' and 'More actions'. Below this, the 'Subscription info' section shows 'Maintenance Subscription' and 'Expires Feb 11, 2016'. The 'Serial numbers' section lists 'Versions' (2015, 2014, 2013, 2012), 'Platforms' (Win 32/64, Mac 64), and 'Seats' (20 of 22 available). A table below lists serial numbers and product keys for the 2015 version, with a red circle highlighting the first two rows. A red arrow points to the 'Serial numbers' section header.

2010 MTecknology, hmm, also it is true that with that broadcom its not always on the side where you connect the usb cable, but no matter defrysk: hmph - I'll have to figure out how to get to it... :D MTecknology, if you mean the bios you can jump to it with F1 i have a dell inspiron e1505 with broadcom wireless you don't have to load the broadcom b43 driver, it just activates it defrysk: I really have no idea why it's not detecting it... if I could see what was going on in the logs that would be nice skatman, is it a new install or a reformat? it's been running for a year now MTecknology, MTecknology, you might get some ideas about what to try skatman: I've had this problem a number of times, but it always goes away if I remember to update the firmware... and I have a hard time remembering to do that skatman, did you check in hardware drivers if the broadcom b43 driver is activated? defrysk: not a bunch of people are reporting the same problem... MTecknology, i know, still interesting to have a look at it defrysk: Yeah, I've seen similar stuff in my logs before and I just can't remember what I did to make it happen :P skatman, if not activated and/or the firmware updated the wifi might not be on : use sudo lsbw -C Network | grep driver to see if its listed as driver=b43 let me get this right i 82157476af
